Bartender Summary

General Reasoning (Cognitive)

Slower Processing
Accepts Simple & Repetitive Work

Faster Processing
Needs Intellectual Challenge

- Because of a high degree of learning speed, Tom can become bored with the routine of some bartender positions
- May be better suited for roles that require complex and unusual problem solving or maybe consider the bartender role as only a part time position in order to avoid boredom
- Tom will be able to rapidly learn specialty drink combinations and other training requirements

Question: Tell me about a time when a customer kept asking you the same question over and over again. What did you do?

Conscientious (Organization)

Carefree
Impulsive

Detail Oriented
Dependable

- Easy going nature allows Tom to handle interruptions from customers and wait staff which can be a continual issue in many bartender roles
- Tom may not pay close attention to details, so it is important to have computer systems or procedures in place that force Tom to fill out computer screens, etc. when critical details must be captured
- Tom may try and rely on faster learning speed to recall details of orders versus using the system to keep track of them

Question: Describe a time when you lost track of some details for a customer and it caused a problem. What did you do?

Tough Minded

Cooperative
Agreeable

Direct
Determined

- Tom tends to be tough minded and direct with customers and wait staff
- In stressful situations, Tom may become more argumentative with customers and team members particularly when there is a difference of opinion

- Tom tends to be comfortable up-selling other food and beverage items to increase the margin of bar revenues
- Given the preference to be in control, Tom may not take direction well

Question: Tell me about a time when you became impatient with a customer because they were being unreasonable. What happened?

Conventional (Rules)

- Tom tends to be consistent and follow the restaurant procedures closely
- Tom prefers a working environment that is structured and predictable versus those that are constantly changing
- Important to let Tom know which policies can be flexible in order to take care of a customer request or complaint

Question: Describe a time when you had to begin working and you had not really been trained yet and didn't know what you were supposed to do. What was it like?

Extroversion

- Tom may not be quick to greet customers in a friendly manner
- Tom tends to be reserved and quiet which can appear to the customer as a lack of enthusiasm or interest
- May be better suited for atmospheres that are more conservative and slower paced versus those that are highly energetic

Question: Tell me how you handle customers who like to chat with you even though you need to move on to the next customer.

Stable

- Tom may feel stress quicker than others particularly if the customers are overly demanding and impatient
- Will generally be very sensitive to customer and wait staff needs which can be helpful in some restaurant environments

Question: Describe a time when you became very irritated with a customer and almost lost your cool. What happened?

Team

- Tom is typically self-motivated and very competitive
- May have difficulty working in a highly team oriented restaurant environment

Question: Tell me about a time when you did something extraordinary in your job but were not given credit for it. What did you do?

Good Impression (Social Desirability)

- Tom's responses have been frank and open
